

Question Bank For PG Course

English Language Teaching

8th Paper

RESEARCH METHODOLOGY & ACADEMIC STUDY SKILLS : PGELT-VIII

Question 1

If a student is found guilty of plagiarism, the consequence would be

Question 2

The etymological origin of the word 'plagiarism' is 'plagiarus', which is a

Question 3

False assumption of authorship is

Question 4

In a Dissertation, it amounts to plagiarism if one takes to

Question 5

In the event of Unintentional Plagiarism when one writes in a second language and emulates an authors's style, one must

Question 6

One rarely needs acknowledging sources in cases of

Question 7

A priori knowledge means

Question 8

Knowledge accepted on the basis of authority includes

Question 9

Empirical knowledge about second language is deduced from

Question 10

Epistemological knowledge is

Question 11

Research in second language brings the researcher into contact with

Question 12

Research in second language can be split into a number of types

Question 13

The variety of possible topics in Second language research includes

Question 14

A linguist holds the theoretical position that different languages share

Question 15

Basic researches in linguistics relate to

Question 16

In heuristic research, procedures are used to collect

Question 17

In deductive research we make assumptions and predict

Question 18

The predictor variable is called

Question 19

Any changes in contention are measured by

Question 20

The researcher may investigate

Question 21

Predictor predicts what will happen to

Question 22

Qualitative data may be classified into a number of types

Question 23

The term nominal data refers to

Question 24

Metric or interval data are data which have

Question 25

The presence of video cameras in a language classroom may

Question 26

Documenting means showing where a researcher has got source information

Question 27

Source documentation establishes the credibility of

Question 28

If the researcher does not document adequately, s/he may run into plagiarism

Question 29

Bibliography means literally

Question 30

Most widely used referencing style in Humanities is

Question 31

What is the etymological origin of the word 'plagiarism'?

Question 32

In which of the following cases the author needs not cite the source?

Question 33

Which of the following is not an instance of plagiarism?

Question 34

When does unintentional plagiarism occur?

Question 35

What do we need for acquisition of phonology?

Question 36

In acquiring second language phonology, what should we take into account?

Question 37

How should we approach Research in second language?

Question 38

What do we mean by analytic method?

Question 39

How do we look upon the synthetic view of a language phenomenon?

Question 40

How is foreign accent related to the vowel quality of the learner's performance in the second Language

Question 41

Is there any relationship between the biological component and the language component?

Question 42

What should be an ideal investigative process in research?

Question 43

How can the vowel phonemes be analyzed?

Question 44

What does a heuristic objective of research mean?

Question 45

How does Heuristic teaching and education help a learner?

Question 46

How does the deductive approach, as distinct from the heuristic approach, begins?

Question 47

Which type of psychology includes 'field independence' and 'field dependence'?

Question 48

In research, how are the operational levels of design and methodology are decided upon?

Question 49

In a research work on children's metalinguistic abilities, how are the parameters fixed?

Question 50

'One of the unique aspects of research involving language is that language can be studied as a medium for communication as well as an object in itself.' What is your view?

Question 51

In the study of language acquisition in a natural setting, what should be our concerns?

Question 52

Is the Second language as a subject of research a delicate and complex study?

Question 53

Is subjectivity in the interpretation of second language phenomena a virtue?

Question 54

What should be an ideal approach to data collection in language research?

Question 55

What is Empirical research ?

Question 56

What is Theoretical research ?

Question 57

What is meant by Control of variables in research?

Question 58

What are the positive sides of Control of variables in research?

Question 59

What is the function of deductive hypothesis-testing methods in research?

Question 60

What is the function of a geometric figure in research?