Also famous as Netaji, Subhas Chandra Bose was a revolutionary freedom fighter who refused to bow down to the British army and rose to incredible powers and fame during those days. Republic Day Celebration: 26th January 2022

We know that the Constitution gave citizens of India to choose their government and paved the way for democracy. On 26 January, the first President Dr. Rajendra Prasad took oath at the Durbar Hall in Government House and unfurled the National Flag at the Irwin Stadium. Therefore, since 26 January 1950, Republic Day is celebrated in India which is one of the most significant days in the history of India as on this day the Indian Constitution came into force. On this auspicious day, India became a Republican unit.

It is the day when the monarchy was demolished from the country. On 26th January 1950, India was declared a sovereign, socialist, secular, democratic republic and the Constitution assured the citizens of India justice, equality, and liberty.

In the words of Bhagat Singh, "The sanctity of law can be maintained only so as long as it is the expression of the will of the people". When the Constitution came into effect on 26th January 1950, people were assured that could enjoy their 'Fundamental Rights' and had freedom of speech; it was freedom in a real sense as people could express their will and enjoy equal law.

International Women's Day: 8th March 2022

International Women's Day is a day to celebrate the significance of women as well as many of the contributions and achievements of women throughout history. It is also a day for reflection that serves as a call to action for greater gender justice in the world. To this day, women are recognized for their achievements no matter their nationality, race, linguistic, cultural, political, or economic status. Celebrated on March 8th in many countries, no one government or organization is singularly responsible for International Women's Day, as the day is recognized as more of a collective effort throughout the world. International Women's Day has been occurring annually for more than a century as a day focused on celebration, unity, reflection, action, and advocacy, which differs in emphasis from place to place.

Tagore started to write poetry at an early age and published his work under his own name. He was an eminent poet, visual artist, novelist, composer, and playwright. He was one of the biggest literary figures in India and the first Asian laureate to win the prestigious Nobel Prize in 1913. 'Gitanjali', 'The Postmaster', 'Gora', 'Chitra', 'Kabuliwallah', 'The Golden Boat', 'Ghare-Baire', 'The Home and the World' etc are some of his great works. Tagore's English prose translations of religious poems from several of his Bengali verse collections were hailed by W.B. Yeats and Andre Gide. His broad knowledge and profound understanding of life fascinated everyone. When he was in his 60s, Tagore took up painting and produced works that won him a place among India's foremost contemporary artists. A period of prolonged agony ended with Tagore's death of prostate cancer on 7th August 1941, at the age of 80. Death is not extinguishing the light; it is only putting out the lamp because the dawn has come.
