As part of the Seva Sankalp Abhiyan-2026, Campus Cleanliness and Tree Plantation Programme was organised at the campus with the objective of promoting environmental awareness, cleanliness, greenery, and a sense of responsibility towards maintaining a clean and sustainable institutional environment.

The programme commenced with the mass singing of “Vande Mataram”. Thereafter, the Director conveyed warm greetings to all the faculty members, officers, non-teaching staff, distinguished participants, and scholars on the occasion of the Seva Sankalp Abhiyan-2026. He also aware the participants that the campus is not merely a place of work or study. It is our shared space, our responsibility and our collective identity. Therefore, keeping it clean, green and healthy is not the duty of a particular person or department, it is the responsibility of each one of us. He also conveyed that every tree planted remind us of our responsibility towards nature, every piece of waste removed remind us of our responsibility towards cleanliness and that every helping hand reminds us of the strength of collective action. Hence, let us work together to create a campus that is cleaner, greener, healthier and more beautiful; a place of which all of us can be proud.

Prof. Sumana Bandyopadhyay, Asst. Professor, ELT also focussed briefly on the significance and values of organizing the program.

This was followed by an address by Prof. Soumabha Chakraborty, Assistant Professor of English, encouraged the participants to develop a strong spirit of Seva (service), responsibility, compassion and commitment towards society and to translate these values into meaningful actions in their daily lives. He stated that initiatives such as Seva-Sankalp Abhiyan–2026 provide a valuable platform for all of us to contribute collectively towards environmental protection, cleanliness, social awareness and the overall well-being of society.

After that, Prof. Ajit Kr. Mondal, Associate Professor, Public Administration urged everyone to take a sincere pledge that the spirit of Seva-Sankalp would not remain confined to the programme alone, but would become a continuing commitment in their personal, academic and social lives. He concluded by emphasising that small acts of service, when undertaken collectively with dedication and sincerity, can bring about meaningful and lasting change in society and contribute towards building a cleaner, greener, responsible and stronger nation.

Afterwards, two Research Scholars of NSOU, Ms. Deblina Mallick, and Ms. Anuska Sengupta also addressed to share their thoughts and emphasised that students, as responsible members of society and future citizens of the nation, have an important role to play in spreading awareness and inspiring others through their actions. Their address conveyed the message that service to society is not only a responsibility but also an opportunity to contribute towards the well-being of the community and the nation.

The programme witnessed active and enthusiastic participation from faculty members, officers, staff members and learners. As an integral part of the initiative, 17 tree saplings (15 Coconut Trees, One Lemon Tree and One Palm Tree) were planted at identified locations across the campus. The plantation drive was undertaken with the objective of enhancing the green cover of the campus, promoting environmental sustainability, and creating a healthier, greener, and more eco-friendly atmosphere.

In addition to the plantation drive, a cleanliness drive was also conducted in and around the campus premises. The participants actively engaged in cleaning designated areas, removing unwanted waste and debris, sprinkling bleaching powder at appropriate locations, and ensuring that the surroundings were maintained in a clean, hygienic and healthy condition.

Special emphasis was also given to creating awareness among the participants regarding the importance of maintaining cleanliness in common areas and other locations requiring attention. They were sensitized to the harmful effects of plastic waste and advised to refrain from bringing or using plastic carry bags within the campus premises. They were further encouraged to ensure proper disposal of plastic and other waste and to avoid littering both within and outside the campus.

The activities undertaken under the initiative reflected a collective commitment towards environmental protection, cleanliness, hygiene and sustainable campus development. The programme also contributed towards fostering a greater sense of civic responsibility and environmental awareness among all participants.

The programme also created greater awareness among the participants regarding the importance of environmental conservation, cleanliness, sustainable practices and collective responsibility. The initiative encouraged all concerned to actively contribute towards maintaining the campus as a clean, green, healthy and environmentally sustainable environment.

The Tree Plantation and Cleanliness activities undertaken as part of Seva Sankalp Abhiyan-2026 were successfully completed with enthusiastic participation and wholehearted cooperation from faculty members, officers, staff members and learners. The programme served as a meaningful and constructive initiative towards environmental protection, campus beautification, cleanliness, hygiene and the promotion of civic and environmental responsibility. The collective efforts made during the programme reaffirmed the commitment of all concerned towards maintaining a cleaner, greener and healthier campus for the benefit of the entire campus community.

In note of thanks, Asst. Director, RC sincerely appreciated the enthusiasm, cooperation and valuable contribution of everyone participating in this initiative with a message to carry this spirit of Seva-Sankalp forward, not just for today, but throughout the year.

The programme concluded with the collective singing of the National Anthem of India, “Jana Gana Mana” with all the members present stood with due solemnity, dignity, and respect and joined in the rendition of the National Anthem.

The program ended with a dignified and inspiring note, Seva in our hearts, Sankalp in our minds, and action in our hands, let us move forward together.
