1. The Concept of Open University

An open learning system is one in which the onus of learning is primarily on the students. Despite this, they are formally enrolled in a system which takes in other learners too. Thus, we draw a line of distinction between the above-mentioned category of students and (a) those borrowing books from Libraries and (b) those formally attached to a conventional university where classroom teaching is the principal mode of instruction.

The Open University represents an alternative approach to higher learning. It stands apart from a highly formal, institutionalized and centrally administered system of education. Its philosophy is built around the principles of universality, flexibility and innovativeness. Its ideas and institutions, its methods and procedures are all shaped accordingly. Conceptually, it can be viewed as a system drawing upon the best elements in formal and non-formal education.

The 'openness' consists of variety of features.

First, it offers easy access to the learners. The entry requirement is not too exacting. A genuine interest in picking up knowledge is all that it expects. Consequently, it would try to embrace as many learners as possible.

Second, its territorial reach is visibly wide. It aims at bringing education to the doorstep of the learner, wherever he or she may be. Various methods of communication and contact are used for this purpose. The classroom of the University, thus, is as wide as the entire land it seeks to serve.

Third, the Open University is learner-oriented. It devises its courses and methods of teaching to suit the needs of the learners. Their options and inclinations are given due priorities. A variety of courses—short-term or long-term, liberal or professional—can be pursued under the University.

Fourth, it believes in fair distribution of quality education, teaching aid, consultancy and study materials. Whatever resources the University has are made evenly available to all learners wherever or whoever he or she might be. It eliminates variations and discrimination.

Fifth, its administration is decentralized. In promoting Distance Education, the University creates a wide network of Study Centres. Students need only to come to the nearest available centre for collecting all information, completing all formalities, discussing their academic issues and appearing for evaluation of their work at intervals chosen by them.

Sixth, student assessment under Open University is based on continuous assessment and credit system. It does not require students to get bogged down in one final examination. One can study at one's own pace.

In short, the Open University seeks to open up the treasure house of knowledge to the maximum number of users. Thereby it would enhance their skills for productivity and further learning. Socially, too, the University promises steady empowerment of those who suffered backwardness for want of these skills. Considering the current trends all over the world, the Open University is going not only to complement the conventional system of higher education but may soon occupy the centre stage also in developing countries where the resources do not measure up to the vastness of the clientele.

2. Netaji Subhas Open University : Vision & Mission

Vision :

3. Academic Courses

The University offers both short-term and long-term programmes leading to Certificates, Diplomas or Post Graduate Diplomas, which are conventional as well as innovative. Most of these courses have been developed after an initial survey of the demand for such studies. They are launched with a view to fulfilling the learners' needs for:

- a) Certification, b) Improvement of skills, c) Self-enrichment, d) Continuing education and professional development at work place and e) Diversification of knowledge.

4. Student Support Services

In order to provide individualized support to its learners, the University has a large number of Study Centres through out the state. The methodology of instruction in this University is different from that of conventional universities. The open university system is more learner-oriented and the learner is an active participation in the teaching and learning process. Most of the instructions are imparted through distance education methodology rather than face-to-face communication. The University follows a multimedia approach for its instruction. It comprises:

- a) Self Instructional Material (SIM): Self instructional study materials will be distributed to the learners in installments free of cost through the Study Centres where they have been admitted. Besides study materials, students will be supplied with a list of reference books for suggested reading.
- b) Personal Contact Programme (PCP): Instruction will be imparted through self-instructional study materials and Personal Contact Programme. The PCP are generally held on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. The centre for PCP may not always be the Study Centre where the student has been admitted.

PCP: Ordinarily the Personal Contact Programmes (PCP) are being held by clubbing of study centres. Enrolled learners are requested to keep in touch with their respective study centre accordingly.

- c) Methods of Instruction: The University makes use of several methods to provide maximum possible exposure of the students to the course-contents and to each instructional programme. To start with, printed self-learning material packages and contact programmes involving face-to-face interaction with academic counsellors are available. Eventually Audio-materials, Audio-visual presentations, Teleconferences and occasional discussion sessions through Webcasted and FM channels may be introduced.
